Grand Jury Investigations

Butzel's white collar criminal defense team represents clients who receive subpoenas to testify before a grand jury because they are witnesses to, subjects of, or targets of a grand jury investigation. We work with state and federal prosecutors to strike a proper balance between a grand jury's need to have information and a witness's personal and financial interests. Our team reviews and organizes documents to ensure that clients properly and cost-effectively respond to subpoenas, and we guide clients through every step of the process.
