Property Taxes

Real estate development and transactions continue to grow in variety and complexity. Butzel attorneys have a nationally recognized depth and breadth of experience in all areas of real property, including property tax matters.

Our professionals represent property owners, tenants, management companies, community and condominium associations, as well as taxpayers in state and local property tax matters. The goal of our attorneys is to minimize our clients property tax exposure on the property they own, lease, or manage, to the greatest extent possible.

Butzel Real Estate attorneys provide their clients with extensive knowledge and experience at both the local and administrative level, appearing before assessing authorities and review boards, as well as the state tax boards. Our attorneys advise on purchases, prepare applications for tax incentives, monitor tax and property improvements, analyze assessments, and file/try tax injunction cases when necessary.
