Public Corruption

Butzel's white collar criminal defense team represents individuals and corporations that face public corruption accusations. We counsel those that are being investigated for or charged with bribery, gratuities, extortion, honest-services fraud, money laundering, obstruction of justice, and other public office-related crimes. We interact with federal prosecutors, state prosecutors, and law enforcement to secure our clients the best possible outcome, which can include decisions not to prosecute. Our team consists of experienced trial attorneys that have handled hundreds of criminal investigations and complex jury trials and appeals.
