Angela Emmerling Shapiro is a litigation Shareholder based in Butzel's Detroit office. She has extensive experience in all aspects of commercial litigation, with a strong focus on electronic discovery ("E-Discovery"). She is a Certified E-Discovery Specialist, having earned CEDS certification through ACEDS.

Angela leverages her training and years of experience to efficiently and cost-effectively guide clients through complicated global and domestic E-Discovery requirements in lawsuits, arbitrations, and governmental investigations (including DOJ, NHTSA and Congressional investigations). She oversees all stages of the E-Discovery life cycle, including information management, developing and executing preservation plans, working with the client to identify and collect data, creating efficient review workflows, assessing and utilizing technology assisted review where appropriate, managing contract reviewers, negotiating production protocols, and approving final deliverables for production. She also litigates electronic discovery issues, including spoliation and cost shifting, and negotiates contracts with technology and other vendors.

Angela has been repeatedly recognized by her peers and DBusiness magazine as a "Top Lawyer" in the areas of Information Management and E-Discovery. In 2018, Crain's Detroit Business included Angela in its inaugural class of
