Pauline Ciesielski is the firm's Accounts Receivable Collections Manager. With over 25 years of experience in the legal industry, Pauline is renowned for her ability to navigate the complexities of financial operations within law firms. Her deep understanding of various practice groups and the regulations governing them allows her to effectively manage collections with precision and empathy.

Pauline is dedicated to ensuring that the firm secures the funds it has billed while maintaining strong client relationships. Whether engaging with estate planning clients with compassion or handling high-stakes litigation matters with tenacity, she seamlessly adapts her approach to achieve optimal results.

Prior to her role at Butzel, Pauline led the Accounts Receivable Team at a global law firm in Southeast Michigan. She spearheaded policy development, oversaw nationwide operations, and implemented procedures that improved efficiency in payment applications, client communications, and attorney accountability in accounting. Her firsthand knowledge of collections law enables her to guide clients through financial options and provide critical accounting documentation in court hearings, ensuring clarity for all stakeholders.

Pauline Ciesielski is located in Butzel's Troy office. She is a key member of the firm's Accounting Department, collaborating daily with her departmental colleagues and attorneys and staff throughout the firm's offices in Michigan and Washington, DC.

Beyond her professional endeavors, Pauline finds joy in spending time with her family and embracing the tranquility of nature. She has a passion for reading, writing, cooking, hunting, and working on cars—interests that reflect her multifaceted personality and drive for accuracy and creativity.
