Health Care Reform Timeline

Publication

6.14.2010

The Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act signed into law in 2010 will make health insurance available and attainable for millions of United States citizens and legal residents who currently lack coverage. It provides for sweeping changes that are phased in over the next eight years. Because of the legislation's complexity and long phase-in period, Butzel Long's Health Reform team created this timeline to illustrate when specific provisions become effective.
