Rebecca B. Fahndrich represents healthcare providers operating in sectors such as long-term care, hospice, assisted living, and home health. With extensive experience in healthcare litigation, she represents her clients in both state and federal courts, managing complex defense matters. Clients value Rebecca's personable nature and her results-driven approach.

Before practicing law, Rebecca worked at a large higher education institution where she handled Title IX investigations and conducted employee misconduct investigations and hearings. As a legal professional, she draws on this experience to provide guidance to her clients to help ensure compliance, mitigate risks, and address their legal challenges.
