

News

Hinshaw's Student Loan Servicing Regulations Guide Featured in NPR Article

February 28, 2018

A student loan resource guide published by Hinshaw was recently featured in an article published by National Public Radio (NPR) about an internal U.S. Department of Education memo that argues federal law should pre-empt state government efforts to impose tougher regulations on student loan servicers and debt collectors.

The guide—"Student Loan Servicing Regulations: 50 State Guide on Laws and Legislations"—aims to inform student loan servicers of the many regulations that have been enacted or are being aggressively pursued by many states and local governments. Edited by Vaishali Rao, a second edition of the publication is expected to be available in April 2018.

Read "Education Department Wants to Protect Student Loan Debt Collectors," on the NPR website

Download a copy of "Student Loan Servicing Regulations: 50 State Guide on Laws and Legislation – First Edition" (PDF)

Attorneys

Vaishali S. Rao

Service Areas

Consumer Financial Services

Offices

Chicago