

News

Hinshaw Insurance Law TV - Cybersecurity Third and Final Part: Ransomware

October 13, 2022

In the third and final episode of our three-part series on cybersecurity, we discuss ransomware and the legal issues surrounding paying a ransom. In this episode, we cover:

- how companies have become better prepared,
- multifactor authentication,
- the OFAC list and the legal issues of paying a ransom,
- what to do if you cannot pay a ransom,
- what happens if you must pay a ransom, and
- how companies can mitigate risk of legal liability in ransomware incidents

View highlights from the program featuring Scott Seaman—Chicago-based partner and co-chair of Hinshaw's global Insurance Services Practice Group—hosting Hinshaw partner Annmarie Giblin by clicking on one of the video snippets, or watch the episode in its entirety by viewing the Full Video located at the bottom of the page. You can also view this and past episodes of Hinshaw Insurance Law TV on-demand on the Insurance & Reinsurance Multimedia page.

Attorneys

Scott M. Seaman

Service Areas

Privacy, Security & Artificial Intelligence

Offices

Chicago

New York