Ronald Kammer Published in Insurance Day on Economic Loss Doctrine Returned to Its Roots

April 4, 2013

Ronald Kammer, a partner in the Coral Gables office of Hinshaw & Culbertson LLP, authored the article "Economic Loss Doctrine Returned to its Roots," which was published in the April 4, 2013, issue of Insurance Day. In this article, Mr. Kammer discusses the case of Tiara Condominium v Marsh & McLennan Companies Inc and how the Florida Supreme Court's verdict returned the economic loss doctrine to its roots by limiting its application to product liability cases.
