Hinshaw Expands Insurance and Litigation Capabilities With West Coast Addition of Six Attorney Team

January 9, 2024

Hinshaw & Culbertson today announced the addition of six attorneys, including three partners and three senior counsel, to the firm's Insurance Services industry group in Los Angeles and San Francisco. Formerly with Coddington, Hicks and Danforth, Min Kang, R. Wardell Loveland, and Rebecca D. Martino have joined as partners. Marcus N. McElhenney, H. Gregory Nelch, and Christiane Sinclair join as senior counsel. The group also includes two staff members.

The team adds significant depth to Hinshaw's insurance coverage and litigation capabilities on the West Coast.

"With the addition of this highly skilled team, Hinshaw builds on our commitment to fully service the insurance coverage and litigation needs of our clients on the West Coast and nationwide," said Hinshaw Chairman Peter Sullivan. "We have longstanding relationships with the group and also many shared clients, and we are delighted to welcome them to the firm."

The team decided to join Hinshaw because of the firm's national presence and reach, outstanding reputation, and highly complementary practices, Kang said.

"Hinshaw's deep bench of experienced attorneys in a wide array of service areas will allow us all to better serve our clients and also provide the opportunity to expand our practices and attract top-level talent to our team," Kang said. "We have long-standing relationships with several Hinshaw attorneys, including Spencer Kook in Los Angeles, and we have incredible respect for our new colleagues. We bring significant experience in complementary practices to the firm, so this mutually beneficial arrangement makes perfect sense."

The new group boosts the firm's capabilities in a wide range of insurance-related litigation matters, including insurance coverage disputes and bad faith, complementing the firm's existing depth in West Coast insurance regulatory, litigation, and compliance work.

"This is a great day for Hinshaw," said Kook, partner-in-charge of the firm's Los Angeles office. "My colleagues and I have crossed paths with the group for years, and I've always admired their legal skill, industry knowledge, and commitment to client service. Their addition adds to our depth in a critical geographic market for the firm."
