July 22, 2025

Hinshaw partner Megan Lopp Mathias was recently a featured guest on the Experts Speak podcast, hosted by Michael DeLon, president of Paperback Expert. In the conversation, Megan explained her proactive approach to providing legal counsel to her business clients.

Megan emphasized the importance of finding a lawyer who fits your business culture and understands the unique needs of entrepreneurs. She noted that her role goes far beyond litigation, describing herself as a proactive partner who helps clients with “the business of the business.” Megan said she encourages clients to think of her as their Chief Operating Officer—someone who is invested in their growth and will help them anticipate challenges and work alongside them to prevent issues before they arise.

Megan also highlighted the advantages of being part of Hinshaw’s national and international platform, noting that clients benefit from having access to a broad bench of highly skilled attorneys. She explained, “You tell our team when you need something, and we get it done. That’s the benefit of having a firm like Hinshaw—you have so many talented people here for you.”

Megan shared one compelling illustration of where she stepped in to support a client after the sudden loss of their CEO, highlighting the value of truly knowing a client’s business. She also explained her practice of offering complimentary “quarterback meetings” to help clients plan for the future, budget legal needs, and build strong documentation to protect their companies. Additionally, Megan described how she regularly hosts lunch-and-learn sessions for C-suite executives, ensuring they are well-informed and empowered to make strategic decisions for their organizations.
