His practice focuses on labor and employment matters, mainly wrongful termination, employment discrimination, retaliation, sexual harassment, wages and hours, violation of constitutional rights, employment-related contracts and civil matters. His experience allows him to offer preventive counseling in topics such as internal corporate investigations on discrimination, harassment and related forms of employee misbehavior, company reorganizations, leaves and accommodations.

Prior to joining McConnell Valdés, he worked for a San Juan labor and employment law firm where he successfully counseled and defended numerous clients, ranging from small local businesses to Fortune 500 companies, before state and federal jurisdiction proceedings, both at trial and appellate levels.

Mr. Figueroa-Navarro has repeatedly represented employers before administrative agencies such as the Conciliation and Arbitration Bureau of the Department of Labor, the Puerto Rico Office of Mediation and Adjudication, the Anti-discrimination Unit of the Puerto Rico Department of Labor, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and the National Labor Relations Board, among others. Similarly, he participated in collective bargaining agreement negotiations and has contended unfair labor practice complaints arising under the collective bargaining agreement.

Mr. Figueroa-Navarro is often invited to speak at lectures and seminars about key employment issues such as progressive discipline, harassment and anti-discrimination policies. Likewise, he also trains managers, supervisors and administrative personnel regarding policies and procedures. More recently, he offered seminars and trainings on workplace harassment, domestic violence, sexual orientation, gender identity and COVID-19
