

Construction Law

Plunkett Cooney is one of the Midwest's leading law firms to the construction industry with expertise in representing design professionals, contractors, subcontractors, developers and their insurance providers.

Whether negotiating a contract, reviewing construction site safety issues, assisting in design project solutions or advocating a client's position in court, Plunkett Cooney attorneys have the industry knowledge, expertise and legal background to protect its client's business assets and achieve favorable results.

Our construction law attorneys are located in offices throughout the Midwest and are ready to provide legal counsel, backed by the resources of a high-powered law firm, whenever and wherever it is needed.