Timothy F. Sheridan is a partner and senior litigator in the firm's Grand Rapids office. He focuses his practice in civil litigation, with an emphasis in trucking and transportation litigation, construction litigation, premises liability, product liability and professional liability, including legal and accounting malpractice matters.

Mr. Sheridan's practice includes litigation on behalf of general contractors and construction managers, law firms and accountants regarding professional malpractice claims, and insurance companies providing coverage to policyholders. These frequently high exposure and complex matters include claims of property damage, including fire loss claims, and personal injury, professional malpractice on behalf of insurance carriers and private companies.

Representative Client Work

- Defended various trucking firms and their drivers in multiple fatality accidents
- Defended general contractors, construction managers and various subcontractor trades in personal injury actions and large property damage claims exceeding $2 million
- Defended lawyers and accountants in west Michigan against claims involving legal and accounting malpractice and professional negligence
- Obtained summary disposition on behalf of Kalamazoo County law firm regarding claims of legal malpractice and professional negligence involving the handling of a wrongful death claim arising out of a motor vehicle accident

- Successfully defended numerous dram shop claims on behalf of large national restaurant chains through case evaluation, facilitative mediation and dispositive motions on such issues as failure to comply with the statutory “name and retain” provision or failure to comply with other aspects of Michigan’s dram shop statute
