Attorney Madeleine C. Craig recently joined the Commercial Litigation Practice Group of Plunkett Cooney, one of the Midwest's oldest and most accomplished full-service law firms.

A member of the firm's Bloomfield Hills office, Craig represents clients in state and federal courts to resolve disputes involving breach of contract, warranty claims, shareholder conflicts, real estate and general business issues.

Craig also maintains a robust transactional practice wherein she works with clients to provide them with advice and counsel on all stages of business operations, including entity formation, regulatory compliance, business planning and capital financing. She routinely negotiates and drafts contracts for the purchase and sale of real estate, landlord/tenant contracts, property management agreements, financing statements and operating agreements.

Craig received her law degree from Wayne State University Law School in 2021. While there, she served as the article editor of the Journal of Law in Society, and she was a member of the Immigration and Asylum Law Clinic. She graduated, magna cum laude, from Albion College in 2018.

The members of Plunkett Cooney's Commercial Litigation Practice Group represent a range of clients in litigation, arbitration and other forms of alternative dispute resolution concerning matters that arise while conducting business. Group members have extensive experience in matters involving contract disputes, class action defense, business torts, real estate disputes, business ownership conflicts, bankruptcy, antitrust claims, corporate compliance, tax and finance, commercial collections, commercial landlord tenant disputes, civil RICO, ERISA, intellectual property claims and many other areas.

Established in 1913, Plunkett Cooney is a leading provider of business law and litigation services to clients in the private and public sectors. The firm employs attorneys in seven Michigan cities, Chicago, Illinois; Columbus, Ohio; and Indianapolis, Indiana.
