Kunchok Dolma is an associate in the Business Trial Practice Group in the firm's New York office.

Areas of Practice

Kunchok's practice encompasses general commercial litigation and government investigations. She has worked on cases involving complex business litigation and construction disputes and with clients being investigated by regulatory bodies such as FINRA and the SEC. As part of her training at Sheppard Mullin, she previously worked in the in-house division of a multinational beauty company.

Prior to law school, Kunchok worked in the mayoral offices of New York City Mayors Michael Bloomberg and Bill de Blasio, managing a multi-million dollar Emmy award winning education program and won a NY Emmy award for her work creating civil engagement and language learning videos.

Kunchok has also completed two judicial internships in the United States Court of International Trade and the New York State Supreme Court.
