About:

The new administration of President Biden has indicated there could be marked changes in laws, regulation and enforcement related to banking, data privacy, labor rights and the environment. Specialist lawyers will each present their top forecasts for policy changes.

The Event:

Compliance and risk professionals are faced with a challenging and rapidly shifting set of crosscurrents, from technological innovation to fluid geopolitics and societal changes that influence the workplace. The Risk & Compliance Forum will present the latest thinking on major trends affecting professionals and how they can adapt their strategies and tactics.

1.

Learn from corporate thought leaders about how they're navigating a turbulent business environment.

2.

Hear from compliance chiefs at major companies about how their role is changing.

3.

Gain insights on how to respond to new laws and regulations, including on cybersecurity, privacy and money laundering.

4.

Gather practical ideas from in-depth case studies of compliance innovation.

5.

Meet with peers to share experiences and discuss solutions that work.
