In the Matter of Cha Jung Hee documents award-winning film maker Deann Borshay Liem's journey to find answers as to why her identity was switched before being sent to America for her adoption. The movie follows Deann as she returns to Korea to find her "double" and raises questions about the history and ethics of international adoption from South Korea.

After the screening, please join us for a panel discussion, featuring Korean American adoptees, their stories, and our hopes to raise awareness for the Equal Citizenship for Children Act of 2023 / Adoptee Citizenship Act, and South Korea's Truth and Reconciliation Committee's investigation into possible human rights violations linked to South Korea's past military governments, including the widespread falsification of children's origins to make them "adoptable."
