

Healthy AI Roundtable: Grappling with the "Promise and Peril" of AI in the Healthcare Industry

Sheppard Mullin Washington D.C. Office
09.17.2024

When it comes to the utilization of artificial intelligence in the healthcare industry, it is an exciting and innovative time, but there are unique legal risks and challenges associated with integrating it into a provider organization. There are risks in using AI and there are risks in not using AI, which will likely soon be part of the standard of care. It is important to think ahead, while also understanding and navigating the range of evolving legal and business considerations. The patchwork framework of regulation is quickly developing, as is the legal landscape and no provider wants to be left behind. Join us for a facilitated, interactive roundtable discussion with healthcare industry leaders where we will discuss various opportunities, challenges and issues related to the state of AI in healthcare and together, look beyond the corners to explore what's next.

Who Should Attend

C-Suite of health and hospital systems and large provider organizations including Chief AI Officers, Chief Legal Officers and General Counsel, Chief Medical Officers, Chief Innovation Officers who are charged with exploring and rolling out AI products within the organization and/or making decisions about AI.
