

Investment Strategies, Supply & Demand Dynamics, Elevating Guest Experiences & Market Trends

Los Angeles, CA

11.19.2024 | 10:00-10:45 AM

Event Sponsor: Bisnow

Bisnow's Los Angeles Hospitality & Retail Summit will explore where hospitality and retail deals are getting done and how this is impacting the future of hotels, stores, shopping centers, malls and mixed-use communities.

Attendees will learn:

- How does Los Angeles hotel and retail development activity compare to other major markets?
- How are travel numbers and the demand for both business and leisure travel shaping the region's development and investment plans?
- What are city officials and hotel owners predicting for accommodating guests during the 2026 World Cup and 2028 Summer Olympics?
- How does retail development and transaction volume compare to the last few years and how will this impact deal flow in the remaining months of 2024, and 2025?
- What recent shifts are top retail tenants seeing with consumer trends, and how is it impacting their real estate needs?
- How are investors assessing growth opportunities across different retail products including shopping centers, malls, ground-floor urban retail and suburban storefronts?
- What are hotel and retail CRE leaders and property managers doing to enhance the overall appeal of their assets?
- What does the next wave of retail space look like and what are tenants looking for in their spaces?
- How are developers and designers elevating guest experience and upgrading assets?

Partner Peter Balance will be moderating on the panel "Navigating LA's Retail Market" covering Top Locations, Leasing Insights, Tenant Demand Drivers and Consumer Desires on November 19 from 10:00-10:45 AM.
