

French American Innovation Day: Bridging Health Innovation - French & New York Perspectives

Financial Panel

06.20.2025 | 10:10-11:00 AM EDT

The French American Innovation Day (FAID) is an annual symposium aimed at fostering collaboration between France and the USA in innovation and research.

The French American Innovation Day will showcase the dynamic landscape of health innovation, focusing on key themes such as onco-immunology, gene therapy and brain and cognition.

Partner Adam Herbst will be speaking on the panel "Financial Panel" from 10:10-11:00 AM.

Topics:

- The influence of the new administration on health innovation and its impact on transatlantic collaboration
- Financial trends in health innovation over the next 10–20 years
- The development of NYC as a health innovation hub compared to Massachusetts and the Bay Area
- Europe's potential contribution to health innovation over the next decade
- Key requirements for successful startup development today
- The role of VCs, angel investors, and financial support in NYC, especially in supporting transatlantic startups
