Sheppard, Mullin, Richter & Hampton LLP has been recognized as one of the most innovative law firms in North America by the The Financial Times. The firm was shortlisted for the Financial Times Innovative Lawyers North America 2020 awards as one of the top "Most Digital Law Firms."

"It is an honor and a privilege to be among the firms who were recognized, highlighting the firm's use of data and technology in practice of law." said Ali Shahidi, Sheppard Mullin's Chief Innovation & Client Solutions Officer. "We are laser-focused on our clients and their business priorities. This recognition is a direct result of close collaboration with our clients to innovate and digitally transform the practice of law."

The Financial Times' report is one of the top legal rankings in North America and highly regarded around the world. This year, some 247 submissions and nominations were received for the North America report from law firms and in-house legal teams.
