

Sheppard Mullin Represented Arlington Capital Partners in Launching Neumo, a New Integrated Software and Payment Provider

08.21.2025

Sheppard Mullin represented Neumo, a portfolio company of the Washington, D.C.-area private equity firm Arlington Capital Partners, on its launch. Neumo is a new leader in integrated software and payments solutions for local, state and federal governments. Neumo was formed through the combination of Avenu Insights & Analytics, Intellectual Technology Inc., and GovOS, to serve governments that transform communities. Sheppard Mullin represented Avenu Insights & Analytics in its merger with Intellectual Technology Inc. and in its newly completed acquisition of GovOS.

Neumo offers a comprehensive suite of cloud-based solutions that help governments modernize operations and elevate the quality of services they provide to their communities. Spanning public administration, DMV, revenue compliance, justice, and integrated payments, the Company's best-in-class products enable customers to drive efficiency, strengthen security, and increase capacity. As a combined business, Neumo is well-positioned to lead the industry through omnichannel solutions that meet constituents where they are, with what they need. The Company is committed to building on its track record of innovation in cloud-based software technology to continually enhance trust, efficiency, and convenience in every interaction between governments and the communities they serve.

The Sheppard Mullin deal team that represented Arlington Capital Partners was led by partners Michael Koltonyuk, Frank Bacelli and Wes Fischer and associate Patrick Diaz. Invaluable assistance was provided by partners Carlo Van den Bosch, Josh McLane, John Crisp, Dmitriy Chelnitsky, Sean Kirby, Leo Caseria, Jim Ritter, Mike Baranovic, Paul Werner, Joshua Schlenger, Imad Matini, Reid Whitten, Rob Gorzelany, Ryan Roberts and Olivier Theard, special counsels Malika Levarlet, Sally Elshihabi, Laura Nava, Elfin Noce and Katie Calogero, and associates Betsy Luxenberg, Iman Naim, Keren Baruch, Emil Meintjes, Tifenn, Drouaud, Jake Torres, Michael Sutton, and Jordan Mallory.
