Adam Streisand rebuts a petition from Robin and Brennan Thicke that claimed she threatened to go to the press unless they complied with her demands. Streisand clarifies that, "Tanya Thicke has never threatened to take private family matters public and she never has," he also added, "It is clear that Alan's sons have chosen this distasteful public smear tactic to bully Tanya, by stirring up the tabloid media, filing a bogus lawsuit, and refusing family mediation. Tanya is still grieving the death of her beloved husband and out of respect for Alan's memory intends to handle his son's false statements privately."
