

Property Assessed Clean Energy (PACE) Financing

Drawing on in-depth knowledge of structured finance, Stinson's Tax Credit & Impact Finance (TCIF) attorneys bring significant experience to the emerging property assessed clean energy (PACE) financing industry. On the forefront, since closing the first commercial PACE transactions in numerous assessment and improvement districts, we provide practical and efficient experience in PACE transactions. We blend the firm's experience in banking and financial services, real estate, public finance, and corporate finance and securitization to lead the PACE process and its industry. We represent capital providers and developers, help districts and program administrators develop form documentation and represent capital providers with the sales and securitization of PACE assets.
