

Renewable Energy Tax Credits

Our TCIF attorneys provide a broad range of services for renewable energy tax credit transactions including drafting and negotiating tax credit transfer agreements and related indemnification agreements, structuring of debt and traditional tax equity transactions, drafting and negotiating all relevant documents and reviewing due diligence materials. Partnering with the firm's Energy practice, our TCIF attorneys handle renewable energy transactions in virtually any segment of the renewable energy industry – solar, wind, biomass, biofuels and hydro. We go beyond tax credits to address client needs, including policy, state and federal regulation, permitting, financing, intellectual property, real estate and environmental considerations. Stinson's TCIF team has been involved in structuring, negotiating, and closing renewable energy transactions for nearly a decade.
