Katherine combines creativity, efficiency, and practicality to develop targeted strategies that deliver meaningful results for her clients.

She represents clients in a wide range of litigation matters, with a focus on bank operations and automotive finance disputes. She regularly handles breach of warranty and rescission claims, wrongful repossession, and matters involving the California Consumer Legal Remedies Act, Uniform Commercial Code, Fair Credit Reporting Act, Electronic Fund Transfer Act, California's Unfair Competition Law, and the Automobile Sales Finance Act.

She also defends mortgage lenders and loan servicers in complex cases involving lien and title disputes, lender liability, wrongful foreclosure, tort claims, and alleged violations of state and federal consumer protection statutes.

Katherine is diligent, proactive, and brings a measured, composed perspective to even the most high-pressure matters. She is a thorough, solutions-oriented, and highly dependable advocate. Katherine believes strong judgment, clear communication, and unwavering commitment to achieving practical results to her clients is the crux of her practice.
