Direct: 816.691.3415

Office: Kansas City

Debtors and creditors rely on Mark's sound business sense when it comes to analyzing and litigating business issues in and outside of bankruptcy and value his experience with financial services, telecommunications, hospitality, and real estate companies.

Mark also provides bankruptcy support beyond litigation, such as true sale and non-consolidation opinions for securitization transactions. He has decades of experience protecting debtor and creditor rights in bankruptcy and related business litigation. Mark's work covers a range of industries, including telecommunications, banking, real estate, hospitality and agriculture.

Recognized by clients and peers for his experience in the area of bankruptcy and creditor/debtor rights, Mark leads complex bankruptcy cases and business litigation for clients, including work for banking and financial services clients. His wide range of business litigation experience is a particular benefit when it comes to problem-solving issues facing those holding distressed assets, including lender liability defense.

EXPERIENCE

Mark was a lead debtor's counsel for a billion dollar chain of 35 hotels in its Chapter 11 case and often represents a publicly-traded REIT in protection of its leasing and related investments.
