Zach leverages his extensive litigation acumen to deliver tailored results for his clients.

Zach is a relentless litigator with a practice focused primarily on resolving commercial disputes. He counsels clients at every phase of litigation on a wide range of matters throughout several industries. Zach values building relationships with his clients in order to develop creative, forward-thinking strategies to achieve successful outcomes.

EXPERIENCE

Zach has substantial experience in all phases of civil litigation, from drafting pleadings and conducting discovery to settling claims and trying a case to jury verdict. He has handled all types of motion practice in both state and federal court, including class certification and appeals.

As a litigator for the Missouri Attorney General's Office, Zach defended state agencies and employees as lead counsel in a multitude of civil disputes. There, he regularly drafted substantive pleadings and discovery, conducted depositions, and presented oral arguments.

Zach has obtained a successful defense verdict as first-chair counsel in a week-long jury trial on claims of employment discrimination. He has also successfully defended against and
