Insurance policies are highly complicated, even for the most basic of risks. Mix in increasingly sophisticated methods of cyberattacks, warp-speed changes in technology, and an expansive menu of potential insurance coverages, and it's a recipe for confusion as to how businesses' exposures should be covered.

During this session, we will break down the applicable coverages and explain how they apply in the event of a cyber crime or data breach and explore how businesses can avoid pitfalls, manage their risk, and try to maximize insurance recoveries.
