

Navigating the PFAS Quagmire: Reporting Requirements, Product Bans & Litigation Trends

Webinar

04.10.2025 | 12 -1 p.m. CT

The landscape for PFAS regulations and related litigation is rapidly evolving and creating compliance and operational challenges for businesses. More than 130,000 companies are now on the clock to collect and report a significant amount of data concerning PFAS to the EPA in 2026, unless Congress amends the Toxic Substances Control Act. In addition, various states are imposing reporting requirements and sale prohibitions on PFAS-containing consumer products such as food packaging, cookware, children's products, clothing, carpets and rugs, upholstered furniture, fabric treatments, cosmetics, feminine hygiene products, and cleaning products.

TOPICS WILL INCLUDE

- Key federal and state PFAS reporting requirements, including EPA's PFAS Reporting Rule.
- Compliance strategies to streamline data collection and reporting.
- Emerging state-level PFAS bans affecting consumer products.
- Trends in PFAS-related litigation and best practices for defense.

CLE credit is pending in the following states: AZ, CA, CO, FL, KS, MN, MO, NE, NY and TX.
