

Stinson Grows Real Estate Practice with Two Partners in Dallas

Press Release

06.03.2021

Stinson LLP is pleased to welcome partners Ashley Anderson and Erin Marino to the Dallas office. Both attorneys bring extensive experience in complex real estate transactions throughout Texas and nationwide.

"We're excited to have Ashley and Erin on board in Dallas because of the foreign and domestic transactional experience they can offer to our clients in Dallas and nationally across the firm," said Paul Lackey, Dallas office managing partner. "Both are highly skilled in real estate finance and acquisitions, and in a wide variety of leasing matters."

Both attorneys focus on serving commercial clients, and anticipate growing their practices with Stinson.

"Stinson offers an unparalleled opportunity to join a firm that is committed to diversity and inclusion, focused on extraordinary client service, and recognized for its team of industry leaders across many practice areas," said Marino. "It is for these reasons that I look forward to expanding my real estate practice here at Stinson."

Anderson brings experience representing purchasers, sellers, lenders and investors in real estate transactions in Texas and across the country. Her practice encompasses transactional work, including the buying and selling of office buildings, retail centers, industrial facilities, raw land and hotels, and she regularly represents landlords and tenants in all stages of negotiations. Anderson has also handled transactions involving acquisitions, dispositions, leasing, lending, formation of ownership entities and project development. She has been recognized by The Best Lawyers in America® and Legalease for her real estate practice.
