Stinson LLP associate Ashley Crisafulli is featured in Attorney At Law Magazine's "2025 Women in Law Special Issue," highlighting standout female practitioners from across the legal industry.

The issue invited women in law from across the nation to reflect on the support they've received throughout their careers. Crisafulli recognized Stinson LLP Partner Megan McCurdy as a mentor and a "champion" for women in the profession.

"Few people truly embody the word 'champion' like Megan McCurdy," Crisafulli wrote. "She is a leader who actively elevates the women around her. She has provided me with a seat at the table, ensured my voice is heard and continues to invest in my professional and personal growth in transformative ways."

McCurdy's practice centers on high-stakes litigation, including class actions, multidistrict litigation and complex consumer and financial services disputes. She has significant experience with trace chemical claims and regularly advises clients on product labeling and regulatory compliance.

Crisafulli's practice focuses on complex litigation, including state and nationwide class actions, consumer protection actions, environmental torts, product liability actions, and commercial litigation.
