

Ben Levin Selected to 2021-2022 Missouri Bar Leadership Academy

Press Release

11.18.2021

Stinson attorney Ben Levin has been selected to participate in the 2021-2022 Missouri Bar Leadership Academy. In selecting the 12 participants, the Leadership Academy seeks diversity in gender, race, area of practice and loyalty of practice.

The Missouri Bar Leadership Academy is offered to Missouri lawyers under the age of 40 or those admitted for fewer than 10 years of practice who are outstanding leaders in their communities. Members participate in The Missouri Bar Annual Meeting, Board of Governors meetings, committee meetings and workshops designed to advance leadership skills. The Leadership Academy begins in November 2021 and will run through November 2022 and includes a training portion and workshops that focus on leadership development and completion of a public service project. At the end of the year, members commit to serve the bar in an active capacity for at least two years.

Levin is a litigation associate with experience in complex civil matters at the dispositive motion stage and at trial. Levin routinely hands cases in areas of constitutional challenges to state laws, complex product liability claims, insurance matters, construction contract disputes and lawsuits arising under the Administrative Procedure Act.
