

Five Stinson Attorneys Recognized Among 2025 IP STARS by Managing IP

Press Release

07.11.2025

Five Stinson LLP Partners, David Barnard, Steve Cosentino, Tim Feathers, Kurt James and Joel Leviton have been selected as 2025 IP STARS by Managing IP. This annual recognition is based on a six-month independent research project and reflects the meaningful impact that these attorneys have made in the evolving field of IP law.

Barnard, recognized as both a Patent Star and Trademark Star, has over two decades of experience in high-stakes cases involving patents, trademarks, copyrights, trade secrets and false advertising. He also advises clients on IP strategy, risk management and licensing to help them protect and maximize their IP assets.

Cosentino, named a Transactions Star, focuses his practice on the intersection of technology, finance and law with an emphasis on technology-related transactions and compliance. He counsels clients on IP strategy, technology licensing and M&A, crisis management, data breach response and compliance with U.S. and international privacy and data security laws.

Feathers is recognized as a Trademark Star and advises clients on areas including software, big data, cybersecurity, technology development, trademark clearance, and protection and enforcement. He helps clients negotiate technology agreements, resolve disputes and protect foundational IP capital and products.

James is named a Patent Star and focuses his practice on the acquisition, licensing and enforcement of patents and trademarks in the U.S. and abroad. With a background in mechanical arts, he helps clients patent mechanical systems and strategically navigate intellectual property law to meet their business goals.
