

Stinson Intellectual Property & Technology Division Recognized by 2025 IAM Patent 1000

Press Release

06.02.2025

Stinson LLP and Partner Kurt James have been recognized in the 2025 edition of IAM Patent 1000: The World's Leading Patent Professionals, a respected guide identifying the top patent professionals in key jurisdictions around the world.

The rankings are determined through feedback from peers and clients as well as independent research. Stinson earned a "Bronze" ranking for its patent services.

The IAM Patent 1000 analysis states that "[Stinson's] registered patent attorneys acquit themselves with distinction in prosecuting applications to grant at the USPTO and before foreign patent offices, displaying finely honed writing skills that put them in demand for original drafting."

James is recognized as a "Recommended Individual," with the guide describing him as "a highly effective senior contact...especially for those seeking commercially attuned strategic advice." His practice focuses on the acquisition, licensing, and enforcement of patents and trademarks in the U.S. and internationally. With a background in mechanical engineering, James helps clients patent complex mechanical systems and navigate intellectual property law to achieve their business goals.
