07.01.2024

Stinson LLP is pleased to welcome Reginald L. Harris to the firm's St. Louis office. Harris joins as a partner in the firm's Financial Services and Class Action Practice Division. He brings a wealth of experience investigating and prosecuting complex federal criminal crimes, having served 17 years in the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Eastern District of Missouri.

"Reggie is a great addition for us, especially in St. Louis. He is a highly respected attorney with an exceptional track record that will benefit our clients and several of the firm's practices," Stinson Financial Services and Class Action Practice Division Chair Chuck Hatfield said. "We are excited to have him and are confident that his business litigation skills will strengthen our teams."

Harris has extensive experience investigating complex crimes and representing clients in internal investigations, corporate compliance matters, white collar criminal defense and civil trial litigation. He investigates and litigates matters involving workplace safety violations, employment discrimination, financial misconduct, regulatory noncompliance and health care fraud. Harris also has significant experience representing a wide range of clients, including corporations, managers, health care professionals and company employees, in high-stakes litigation and federal investigations.

"Stinson has a well-established, strong litigation practice and is committed to providing the highest level of client service. I am thrilled to be joining a team of this caliber and excited to deepen its white collar bench," Harris said.
