Stinson LLP Partner Marc Weintraub is featured in a Daily Business Review article, "Stinson Expands Into Southeast With New Tampa Office."

Weintraub provides details into the firm's decision to expand services into the Southeast region with the opening of an office in Tampa, Florida.

"People from Minneapolis, Minnesota; Kansas City and from the middle of the country, they move to the west coast of Florida when they come to Florida," Weintraub said. "It's the right place to be for the connectivity that Stinson has with its Midwestern client base."

The firm opened its Tampa office to further serve a growing number of clients with operations in Florida and to capitalize on the region's steady growth. Weintraub notes the Tampa office will target matters involving real estate, mergers and acquisitions, complex commercial litigation, and tax, trusts and estates. Specific to the Sunshine State, Stinson will also pursue environmental law, commercial litigation and insurance practices.

"If the firm taps into those growing trends, it can both reach new clients and its existing clients within those spaces," Weintraub notes.

In addition to Weintraub, Stinson's Tampa office includes Partners Todd Phelps and Stephen Putnoki-Higgins, of counsel Kurt Gleeson, and attorneys Gregory Payton and April Petrosino.
