Adam K. Brandt, a partner in the firm's Columbus office, was quoted in the story entitled "Capital Concerns: How Buybacks and Dividends Affect Value" that appeared in the Fourth Quarter 2011 edition of Corporate Board Member.

The story, which is about the pros and cons of stock repurchasing programs, states: "If I'm a director, I want to make sure we've checked to make sure there isn't a contractual restriction on purchasing common shares,' says Adam Brandt, a partner and head of the public company practice at Vorys, Sater, Seymour and Pease LLP in Columbus, Ohio. 'The last thing you want to do is authorize a repurchase program, start purchasing shares, and then have to double back.'"
