

Brown Featured in Law Technology News Story Titled “E-Discovery: It's the Story, Stupid”

Related Attorneys

Julie K. Brown

NEWS | 4.22.2014

Julie Brown, the firm's litigation technology executive manager, was featured in a Law Technology News story about the second annual E-Discovery Conference, which was held at the University of Florida's Levin College of Law. The theme of the conference was “Telling The Story”. According to the story, it offered participants “a chance to talk about the tasks that litigation teams typically perform, not just the onerous, budget-busting review efforts that usually dominate program agendas.”

The story also states:

“In a panel discussion, ‘Lock at Data Now: Test the Story,’ Julie Brown, litigation technology executive manager at Vorys, Sater, Seymour & Pease and veteran EDRM contributor showed the audience how to dive under the hood to identify gaps in collections, unearth themes, and get a jump on volume reduction before review.”

To read the entire story, visit the Law Technology News website.