Vorys is pleased to announce that Paige Kohn, an associate in the Columbus office, was recently selected to join the 2017-2018 class of the Ohio Women's Bar Foundation's (OWBF) Leadership Institute.

According to OWBF, the mission of the Leadership Institute is to advance inclusiveness within the legal profession and supplement the professional skills of women lawyers by enhancing their leadership, business development, and communication skills for the benefit of the diverse communities in which they work, live and serve.

Kohn has a broad background in litigation, and has worked in both the private and public sector. She currently focuses her practice on business litigation, particularly antitrust and e-discovery. Kohn also regularly writes articles on legal trends and is an adjunct professor at Capital University Law School where she teaches a paralegal course on e-discovery and legal technology.

Kohn received her J.D. cum laude from Capital University Law School, where she was the executive research editor of the Capital University Law Review and member of the Corporate Law Moot Court Team. She received her B.A. with honors and distinction from The Ohio State University.
