Rick Schuster, a partner in the firm's Columbus office, was quoted extensively in the article "Ohio Tackling Asbestos Case Backlog" in the October 23, 2008 edition of Products Liability Law360. The article highlights several Ohio Supreme Court decisions that have curbed asbestos claims.

The article states: "Attorney Rick Schuster, who argued on behalf of asbestos defendants before the Ohio Supreme Court, said the main effect of recent court decisions is that 'Ohio now will just deal with serious asbestos cases.' 'Companies consequently won't have to report on the cases where plaintiffs haven't yet become ill,' said Schuster, an attorney with Vorys Sater Seymour and Pease LLP."
