

Vorys Cincinnati Office Moves into the Great American Tower at Queen City Square

NEWS | 4.2.2012

Vorys, Sater, Seymour and Pease is pleased to announce the firm's Cincinnati office has moved into the Great American Tower at Queen City Square. The firm's new office is located on the 35th and 36th floors of the tower. The firm also partially occupies the 34th floor and has room for additional expansion.

"This move signifies Vorys' long-term commitment to downtown Cincinnati," said Nathaniel Lampley, Jr., managing partner of the Vorys' Cincinnati office. "Vorys – which is now one of the fastest growing law firms in the city – has continued to expand its Cincinnati office by successfully representing major clients located in the tri-state area as well as clients across the country. We are confident in the bright future of Cincinnati."

The Vorys Cincinnati office opened in 1984 with four attorneys. Since then, it has grown to more than 75 attorneys who practice law in dozens of disciplines including litigation, corporate law, financial institutions, labor and employment, commercial law, construction and environmental law.

Since 2006, the office has grown by more than 50 percent. The office has expanded in several practice areas, notably in the areas of litigation, commercial real estate and asset-based lending practices. The firm's Cincinnati team leads the firm's growing national practice involving litigation claims under the False Claims Act; maintains one of the largest practices in the country specializing in Federal Housing Administration (FHA) issued loans for apartments and nursing homes; and includes a unique asset-based, commercial finance group.

The new office is located at:

301 East Fourth Street
Suite 3500, Great American Tower
Cincinnati, Ohio 45202
