Vorys is pleased to announce that Bradley T. Miller has joined the firm as a partner in its Cleveland office. Miller, who has more than a decade of sophisticated legal experience primarily in the real estate area, previously practiced at both a major global law firm and a major global corporation.

"We're excited to welcome Brad to Vorys," said Tony O'Malley, the managing partner of the Vorys Cleveland office. "He is recognized as an up-and-coming market leader in all aspects of transactional real estate law and will supplement our already-strong team of Northeast Ohio-based attorneys. We are confident Brad will be an asset to all of our clients and, in particular, our corporate, development and banking clients."

Miller focuses his practice on the acquisition/disposition, development, leasing, and financing of commercial, industrial, and multifamily residential properties both in Ohio and throughout the United States. He also advises clients on real estate joint ventures and the real estate aspects of mergers/acquisitions and capital markets transactions.

"Vorys is a premier law firm that is uniquely focused on promoting teamwork and collaboration among its lawyers and professional staff," said Miller. "I look forward to leveraging the Vorys platform to continue delivering the highest level of service to our clients."

Miller received his J.D. from Duke University, where he served as an articles editor of the Duke Environmental Law & Policy Forum. He received his B.A. magna cum laude from Columbia University, where he majored in English literature.
