Frederick Waite, of counsel in the Vorys Washington, D.C. office, was quoted in a Reuters story titled "Analysis: Global steel glut feeds trade skirmishes." The story highlighted the competition and trade disputes in the global steel industry.

The story states:

"But it isn't just the United States that has concerns.

'Many developing countries feel that their industries are being savaged by imports from other developing countries,' said Frederick Waite, a trade attorney at Vorys, Sater, Seymour and Pease LLP."
