Kristin Watt, a partner in the Vorys Columbus office and chair of the environmental group, was included on Columbus Business First's "20 People to Know in Energy" List. According to the paper, individuals on the list "are front and center in their industries." Watt was selected for her work in energy and environmental law.

An interview with Watt was published and included the following question:

Why did you get into this profession?

"I started doing environmental work at Vorys nearly 24 years ago. I liked the people who worked in the firm's energy and environment practice group and enjoyed the science aspect of regulatory compliance. I always have worked on the environmental side of the energy industry as Vorys has had a large energy practice for decades. Obviously, when the shale plays began to be explored, our energy practice grew exponentially – as has the environmental side of oil and gas production and midstream operations."
