

Publications

The EPA's Common Sense Initiative and Its Legacy on the Finishing Industry

Related Attorneys

Anthony J. Giuliani

Related Services

Environmental

AUTHORED ARTICLE | 1.18.2012

Anthony J. Giuliani, a partner in the Columbus office of Vorys, Sater, Seymour and Pease LLP, analyzed the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's 1994 "Common Sense Initiative" in an article published in the February edition of Products Finishing Magazine. Giuliani, a member of the firm's energy and environmental practice group, found that – although the program was largely deemed a failure – a handful of valuable research and development projects came as a result of the initiative.

Read the entire article.