

23andMe Seeks Authority to Appoint Data 'Representative' In Bankruptcy Sale

Privacy Daily
4.16.25

John Loughnane, Partner, was recently interviewed by Privacy Daily for an article titled, "23andMe to Appoint Data 'Representative' in Bankruptcy Sale."

This article discusses 23andMe's recent motion seeking authority to appoint a "customer data representative" in connection with its effort to sell customer data as part of its pending bankruptcy case.

Since the publication of the article, the United States Trustee's Office (a division of the Department of Justice) has opposed the motion and also asked the court for an order authorizing the United State Trustee to make the appointment of a consumer privacy ombudsman in connection with the sale. The Court will hold a hearing to consider the competing motions later this month.

To read the full article, click here.

This correspondence should not be construed as legal advice or legal opinion on any specific facts or circumstances. The contents are intended for general informational purposes only and you are urged to consult a lawyer concerning your own situation and legal questions.