

A Whole New World: Building Automated Systems (BAS) and Subrogation

By: Lian Skaf and Gus Sara
Subrogator Magazine
Fall/Winter 2020

We are in the midst of what may turn out to be the fourth industrial revolution, where digital automation permeates almost every aspect of life. The blurred lines between the physical and digital worlds is evident in the rapid advancement of Building Automated Systems (BAS). There is no question that the hyper-automation of building systems has and will continue to drastically impact subrogation.

In their article in the Fall/Winter 2020 edition of NASP's Subrogator magazine, Gus Sara and Lian Skaf address some of the ways in which BAS affects subrogation, and anticipated changes that can impact subrogation in the future.

This correspondence should not be construed as legal advice or legal opinion on any specific facts or circumstances. The contents are intended for general informational purposes only and you are urged to consult a lawyer concerning your own situation and legal questions.